HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS county of the above Patent and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.
Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

DATES TO OCTOBER 16

New York News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Henry Hotchwick boarded at Salisbury's Hotel, Salisbury's Connecticut. Mr. Halstead, proprietor of the hotel during a dispute about his hotel bill. Halstead was instantly killed. The murderer was arrested.

Professor Hough, Chief of the Astronomical Department of the Dudley Observatory, Albany, has predicted that before next Tuesday we shall have eight inches more rain, and that the water in the Hudson river and creek will obtain even a greater height than in 1857.

The suspension of Lindsay Chaddick & Co. importers, is announced. Their liabilities are not large and it is hoped the suspension is only temporary.

The Commercial Convention at Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 15.—The convention yesterday was engaged in receiving most of the voluminous reports from the Committees here.

A majority of the Committee on the Southern Pacific Railroad reported in favor of the route on the 35th parallel, known as Fremont's road, with the Eastern connections to Leavenworth, St. Louis, Cairo, Memphis, Galveston, New Orleans &c. The minority report favored the 32d parallel route from St. Louis. A very acrimonious discussion followed, and heated and bitter language was used. A vote was finally taken and the majority report in favor of the Fremont route carried, nearly three to one. The visitors were very much delight while the St. Louis and Louisville people were filled with anger and mortification.

The Convention have agreed to adjourn at 11 o'clock this morning.

Admiral Farragut Recovering

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Admiral Farragut's condition is such as to justify the most sanguine hopes of his friends for his recovery, unless some sudden violent relapse takes place.

Committee on Commerce

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Congressional Committee on the depression of American Commerce held another session to-day, and heard statements and suggestions of different parties. They hold another meeting to-morrow and go to Boston. They will meet at Philadelphia, Baltimore and Wilmington before the Forty-second session of Congress.

Vermont Legislature Assembled

MONTPELIER, Oct. 15.—The Legislature organized to-day. G. W. Grandey was elected Speaker of the House.

The Yerger Case.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—In the Supreme Court, to-day, Attorney General Hoar commenced his argument in the Yerger case. He argued that the case is not properly before this Court. The Supreme Court cannot exercise any appellate control over the Military Commission, by virtue of whose sentence the prisoner is imprisoned. Addressing a writ of habeas corpus to the Military Commission in Mississippi would be an exercise of original, not appellate, jurisdiction. Military commanders holding prisoners by military authority, and not under any order or decree of the City Court. The Attorney General quoted the act of February 5, 1867, as taking away appellate power in cases like this, also, the act providing a military government for Mississippi which necessarily suspended the writ of habeas corpus.

J. M. Carlisle replied briefly. He said this proceeding was instituted under the fourteenth section of the Judiciary Act, and not under the act of 1867, as contended by the Attorney General. He insisted that the Court had jurisdiction of the case.

The Court adjourned till Monday.

Hallridge and Fields, of Massachusetts, was admitted to the bar. Fields holds the position of Assistant Attorney-General.

The Rothschilds Again.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Herald's Washington special says he has seen a letter purporting to be from M. Feguet, agent of the Rothschilds in New York, to a friend in Washington, stating that his proposition and correspondence relative to offering an unlimited loan from the Rothschilds to our Government at 4 per cent., has been conducted by him directly with the President at his request. M. Feguet says the public announcement in the Herald was evidently the result of jealousy on the part of the Treasury, who was not consulted in the matter. M. Feguet will return to more or less but he believes the matter will be successfully carried out. M. Feguet is said to be a partner in Rothschilds' banking house, and was for many years the spirit of their Paris firm.

The Recent Gold Speculations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Specials say General Grant has written a letter to Robert Bonner, in reply to an inquiry from the latter, declaring that he had nothing whatever to do with the recent gold excitement in New York except to order the sale of gold to break the ring, engaged, as he thought, in the most disreputable transactions.

Report of Gen. Thomas on Alaska.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—A Washington special says Gen. Thomas having made a thorough inspection of Alaska and studied its conditions and resources during the past summer, has just forwarded a report to the War Department. He takes a very different view of the subject from the one presented by Mr. Seward. He thinks the principal, if not the only present value of the new Territory will be in the effect its transfer to the United States will have upon the losing hold by England upon British Columbia. He thinks the region of revenue and other civil officers there a useless expense, as the only benefit is to those who draw the salaries. He thinks the military posts should be reduced, and that the expenses of supplying and keeping up a civil service there very far exceed the revenue collected. The Territory was a constant burden to Russia. She held it at great expense, simply for the benefit of the Fur Company. There is no probability of any emigration in that direction, as there is not the slightest inducement for any. No mines of valuable mineral have been discovered which would pay to work. There is plenty of timber and coal but plenty of as good quality and easier access can be had 1,000 miles south of the Territory.

There has been no change in trade on the part our merchants. The few houses engaged before the purchase still continue, but the fur trade in the interior must continue to be carried on by the natives. As an agricultural region it has no value whatever. Grains cannot be raised and the few vegetables that can be produced not if not used within a few weeks. Stock raising cannot be carried on, and the superabundance of rain and great lack of sun preclude the idea of any profitable cultivation of the soil.

The report is lengthy and exhaustive but the above are the main points. As to the reported irregularities of the troops there and the alleged neglect of General Jeff. C. Davis and General Thomas it finds that the accounts that have been circulated are gross exaggerations. There have been some troubles with the troops which seemed to call for more stringent discipline from the hands of Gen. Davis so that while there was some foundation for the stories afloat, there was nothing to justify the coloring they received.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

PARIS Oct. 15.—The Emperor's health was satisfactory yesterday. He went hunting.

A strike among coachmen and merchant's clerks is imminent.

DUBLIN Oct. 15.—O'Donohoe, Member of Parliament for Mercy and Tralee writes to the Dublin Amnesty Committee on the course of the Government towards political prisoners. He states that the Government discretly and individually commiserate the Fenian prisoners and are anxious to liberate them if it can be done consistently with duty to the State. He is convinced that the Government cannot without degrading its functions and betraying trust yield anything to the faintest semblance of unconstitutional pressure.

The Times in an article states confidence in the ability of Spain to soon repress the insurrection, is increasing.

The ship Sir Lancelot which sailed from Foo Chow, China on the 18th of July with a cargo of tea has arrived in the Thames. She is the winner of the race for tea ships.

The Times commenting on the situation in France says: "Such uncertain and inconsistent policy which would allow and forbid public meetings at the same time exceeds our comprehension. To permit citizens to assemble and leave it to the police to stop the disorder is adding insult to injury. The profession of confidence made by the Government is framed by its acts. If anything is likely to be fatal to France and the dynasty of Napoleon, it is a perpetual distrust in the capabilities of the nation for self control and France has at the present moment no Government.

The Emperor's message to the Corps Legislatif placed the between old Imperialism, which the Emperor has declared out of date and exploded and the new constitutional rule which he announced but he is unable or unwilling to define.

GLASGOW Oct. 15.—Noon. A great fire is raging. The Vulcanite Oil Works are burning. The loss will be heavy.

MADRID, Oct. 15.—There is rumor that Napoleon intends to establish a corps of observation on the frontier. It caused much excitement.

During the Cortes yesterday one resolution was offered, thanking the defenders of the Spanish authorities in Cuba.

General Prim declared that the Home Government only awaited favorable result of conflict then to accord all reforms and liberties required by the Colony.

ALEXANDRIA EGYPT, Oct. 15.—The water of the Nile is subsiding. There is no longer any apprehension of serious damage to cotton crops.

Losses by flood do not exceed aggregate, 500 bales.

MADRID, Oct. 15. Several prominent Republican citizens have been arrested. A petition from the Bishops, that the insurgents in Valencia be allowed to capitulate, has been refused. More fighting is reported in Catalonia and Grenada. Where the Government troops were victorious. It is calculated that at least 20 000 armed insurgents are in the field. It is reported that insurgent bodies have fired the City of Cartagena.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A Madrid letter states that the railroads and telegraph lines are destroyed for a great distance around that city.

Late advices from Fernando Po, state that a volcano in the Cameron range on the main land near the island, is in active eruption.

The Saturday Review has a lengthy editorial on the course of the Government towards the Fenian prisoners. After reviewing the amnesty agitation it asks if Gladstone is prepared to act with vigor and severity in the case of a new Fenian rising, or has he calculated on the efforts required to cope with treason and galvanize into energetic life the languished spirits of former Orders? or has his impressionable nobility swerved towards the recognition of Irish independence? The supposition is that it is barely creditable, but not wholly inconceivable. If he should show the faintest leaning in the direction of tampering with treason and traitors, there is an end of his national and Parliamentary majority and his existence as a Minister. It is impossible to exaggerate the gravity of the issue to be decided. When the final answer is given to the partisans of amnesty, the power of the Government in Ireland is shaken and awe of the Government nearly extinct. Let pusillanimous concession be made, and from that moment the very idea of a Government will be inseparable from ridicule and contempt.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO Oct. 15.—A man supposed to be E. A. Graves, was found in a dying condition at the foot of Broderick Monument. He was removed to a house near by soon after. A letter in his pocket says he intended to commit suicide.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—There are only four cases of small-pox in the city and those of a mild type.

Hon. A. J. King publishes a card of withdrawal as a candidate for County Judge. His chances of election were by many considered slim. Don Ignacio, Sobul, Veda and O'Hallan remain in the field.

Fires are no longer visible in the mountains.

The immigration this way continues mostly for Arizona and below.

Prescott views with curiosity its first Chinaman.

The new locomotive for the Los Angeles and San Pedro Railroad commences running next Wednesday. Time between Wilmington and here will be much shorter thereby.

NEVADA.

RENO Oct. 14.—A fire occurred here to-day, opposite the Cosmopolitan Hotel, caused by the explosion of a can of alcohol in a French restaurant, owned by Cohen & Co. J. H. Fitch, sheriff and J. Hubbell, grocers, will probably lose about $6,000, of which Cohen & Co. lose $1,500, Fitch $1,000 and Hubbell $4,000. Fortunately there was no wind at the time, otherwise the loss would have been very heavy, as the buildings in the vicinity were all wood.

Captain Eldridge, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company passed here going east. Captain Foote, U. S. A., also went east to-day.

Very light trains running east now, only fifty passengers to-day.

OREGON

Good wheat is quoted at Albany at fifty and fifty five cents.

The Albany Register has been greatly improved of late and is now one of the very best of our State exchanges.

In Linn county there are forty three men over seventy years of age. One has reached ninety two are eighty five.

The pastor of the M. E. Church, at Albany Rev. H. C. Jenkins has caused to be placed in the church edifice the fine organ purchased by the society some time since.

From the Albany Register Albany College under the charge of Rev. R. R. Gray and Samuel G. Irvine assisted by a corps of competent teachers will open on the 18th inst.—Monday next.

From the Corvallis Gazette. The young men of Corvallis have determined to establish a Gymnasium in the city. A few hours work on the street secured subscriptions for the purpose of purchasing apparatus to the amount of seventy five dollars. It is designed to have a ready room in connection with it and thus furnish a pleasant resort for the members during the long evenings of winter.

The Albany Democrat is out two days before the usual time of publication in order that, as it says, "our readers can get from us the earliest election news. It then proceeds to inform its readers by heavy display lines that Pendleton is elected that there are immense Democratic gains and that the land is filled with Democratic rejoicings. What an awful sell on the Democracy of the Pacific!

GOVERNOR AND HIS PLAN HERE. The Marquise de Boissy (Countess Quinemil) has of course a word to say upon the Byron question. It is however not much of a word although we can readily believe the statement that others more potentious are impending. At present she confines herself to announcing through a writer in La Liberte that she is in constant and direct communication with Lord Byron by means of a process similar to that known in America as Planchette, and that she was informed by the post two years ago that an American author was preparing to write on his life a book of false and horrible things. This is interesting, if not convincive and it is not at all improbable that we may before long be favored with Byron's direct revelations upon the subject of Mrs. Stowe's revelation through the same trustworthy and unimpeachable channel.

Republican Majority in Pennsylvania, 4,842

PHILADELPHIA Oct. 18.—Official returns are received from all the counties but Butler, Potter and Juniata, and taking reported returns from those counties give Geary's majority at 4,842.

Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The Cabinet meeting to day was merely for the transaction of ordinary business. All members were present but the Secretary of War.

Ecclesiastics for Rome

BALTIMORE, Oct. 16.—Archbishop Spaulding, Primate of the United States, Archbishop Alemany, of San Francisco, Bishops Varot, of Savannah; McGill, of Richmond; Wood, of Philadelphia; Domins, of Pittsburg; Gibbons, of North Carolina; O'Gorman, Vicar Apostolic, of Nebraska, and three priests from Nebraska, sail for Rome from this port on the 20th.

Dispatch from Wilmington, N. C.

WILMINGTON, Oct. 16.—Through the courtesy of the counsel for the defence in the case of Cuba, the trial is postponed till Monday.

J. H. Neff, Mayor of Wilmington, who was tried by Judge Cantell before a special jury on a charge of contempt, was convicted, fined and ordered to jail until his fine and costs were paid. He was confined, but immediately put under a habeas corpus. The case excited much comment as the Special Court is becoming odious to all parties. The case was based on a conflict with the clerk of the Superior Court from a room in the City Hall building, over which the Mayor claimed the city had the exclusive control.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Iron clad Dictator sailed for Key West in tow.

There were remarkably lively times in the Gold Room this morning and much excitement among the members was caused by an excited speech from Mr. Jordan, upon the financial condition of the Gold Exchange Bank. Jordan claimed that but for legal measures the bank would have settled with its creditors, and that the injunction of Mayor A. Oakey Hall, would now prevent any. Utterance. The bank had lost two hundred and sixty thousand dollars in order to go on, and it desired more liberality and consideration from the public. He also said, with an emphatic oath, that if the bank had not advanced four million dollars to the street during the panic, all of the brokers would have been utterly ruined, and several banks would also have gone to the devil. Much confusion was here caused by cries of "put him out." He promised to pay from 15 to 25 per cent. in three working days, but they must give him a fair start. He wanted Gardner fairly and would report the names of any parties who attempted to prevent or interfere with him in arranging settlements. A member called for something in regard to the condition of the bank and Jordan stated that it was solvent. Brokers would be very foolish to go back on the bank now. If they did they were too mean to live."

At a meeting of the creditors of the bank this afternoon the situation was fully discussed and the action of Mayor was disapproved. The feeling was unanimous in favor of giving Jordan a fair chance, and saving. It was drawn up to take no legal steps toward forcing the bank into bankruptcy for ten days. It was signed by a large number, and it is believed that 95 per cent. of the creditors will sign. It was unanimous at the meeting that the injunction had been modified to allow the receiver to collect money due the bank and effect settlements in all cases where he could do so advantageously. It is stated the liabilities of Lindley Chittock, whose failure was announced yesterday, will amount to half a million in gold—mostly due in Europe.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 18, 1869.

A Suggestive Parallel.

Down in Mississippi the Democracy are "progressive." There are queer doings at the home of Jefferson Davis. It is edifying to observe how sweet the "white man's Government" party down there is upon the colored individual. "Judge" Dent has the united support of that party for Governor of Mississippi, and the dulcet tones in which he talks to the negroes are wonderful to hear. His speeches seem to be an elaborate apology for the misfortune which made him a white man, instead of a negro. He tells his colored auditors, in substance, that though he has not African blood in his veins, this is not his fault. He, however, drew his earliest nourishment from a black "mammy," and is therefore the next thing to a darkey himself. He thus explains how he got the negro milk into his cocoanut:

I have full sympathy for you, from being among you and nursed by a colored woman, for whom I had the greatest affection. I shall always remember her with feelings of affection, as she guided my infant steps. She had true affection for me, and do you believe that under the circumstances I should love her better than I would a stranger. Such feelings are implanted in our bosoms by the Deity. As it has been with me, so it is with the whole people of the South. They are your firmest and will continue to be your true friends, for they love you better than strangers, however great their protestations, can do.

By such sweet flattery it is expected that the negro will be perfectly captivated, and induced to vote Democratic with a "looseness." We may expect to hear very soon such talk as this addressed to the colored people of Oregon by our Democratic politicians. For the Fifteenth Amendment will soon be ratified, and the colored voters of Oregon may hold the balance of power. Then our Democratic politicians will be fairly on their knees before them, courting their friendship and support. Only think of Smith, Stout, Chapman and Whiteaker, addressing "our colored brethren," as they will soon be calling them, in such language as that employed by the Democratic candidate for Governor in Mississippi! Won't it be edifying to behold them, one and all, endeavoring to prove that they are the only true friends of the colored race, that they cherish a high and holy affection for that people, that it would be unnatural for them not to remember with most affectionate regard the source from which they drew their earliest nourishment, and that, thank Heaven, they are incapable of such ingratitude as to forget what they owe to a people to whom they are attached by such fond remembrances! It need not surprise anybody to hear from these gentlemen such moving and melting speeches as this in our campaign next Spring. For there is every probability that the Fifteenth Amendment will be proclaimed before that time. We speak of this matter now, in order that the people of Oregon may be prepared to hear Smith, Grover, Ben. Hayden, and others, in the new part which the exigencies of politics are likely to call upon them to play.

Down in Mississippi the Democracy are supporting a colored man for a State officer. The Brandon Republican, a Democratic paper, thus speaks in his praise:

Thomas Sinclair, the nominee for Secretary of State, is a colored man of excellent character. All who know him speak of him in the highest terms of praise. He did not seek the nomination, but as his colored friends asked to be represented on the ticket he finally consented to serve. If elected he will get a competent gentleman to assist him.

Here is another hint for the Oregon Democracy. Who knows but they will imitate the example of their Mississippi brethren, and give "our colored friends" a proof of their high regard by placing one of their number on the Democratic State ticket? Such a proceeding would not in the least disconcert Rev. Joseph Smith. It is true his speeches in the last campaign were little else than vituperation of the "nigger," but this would be no impediment whatever to his taking the stump next year in behalf of "our colored fellow citizens," and protesting that he has always been one of their truest and most devoted friends. The course of the Democracy in Mississippi, though it obtains little notice here as yet, may be startlingly suggestive of the policy of the Democracy of Oregon!

In General.

The Republican majority in Pennsylvania is close upon 5,000. This is very satisfactory, considering the meagreness of the vote. On a full vote the Republicans of Pennsylvania can easily repeat the majority they gave for Grant.

The "Sunday Leader" did not appear this week, and the Chinaman has a respite. John has been catching it every Sunday for ten weeks in a two column "number;" but the defeat of Pendleton has disheartened the author of these ponderpus invectives and completely "knocked him out of time."

Dr. Joseph Jones, Secretary of the Southern Historical Society, estimates the rebel losses during the war as follows: Killed, 53,773; wounded, 194,076; prisoners, 202,283. The total deaths in the rebel army during the war, in battle and from disease, is estimated at 200,000.

The New York Herald is a paper which is not friendly to the policy of the Republican party, as in speaking of the tariff it says it is folly to talk of a very low tariff when we have to raise such a large revenue and such a large amount of specie to pay the interest on the national debt. But little or no change should or can be made at present."

All the questions on which the two political parties are divided were made prominent in the late campaign in Ohio. The proposed suffrage amendment was heartily supported by the Republicans, and the obtainment of a majority in both branches of the Legislature under such circumstances is an emphatic verdict in favor of that measure. The questions of tariff and payment of the national debt were also prominent features of the campaign. On all these issues the Republicans have triumphed. This statement will give some idea of the importance and significance of the election. The Pendleton faction were utterly routed on their own ground.

As we have not yet printed the platform of the three Democratic lawyers of this city who claim to be the "workingmen" of East Portland, it may be worth while for us to say that the said platform demands the payment of the national debt in greenbacks, asserts that the "Radicals" are subverting the Government and founding an empire on its ruins, demands the taxation of national securities, inveighs against the Chinaman, opposes the Fifteenth Amendment and demands the immediate restoration to all rebels of civil and political rights. Strange to say, the constitution of this "labor" association does not pronounce the war a failure, nor reaffirm the resolutions of '98. But these were probably unintentional omissions, which can be supplied at the next meeting.

THE STATE FAIR.

FIFTH AND SIXTH DAYS.

SALEM, Oct. 15, 1869.

My letter descriptive of the last days of the FAIR, is liable to be somewhat a mosaic in matter. I find my notes are scattered and mixed in the most unaccountable manner—all the fault, I assure you, of the managers of the fair. They wouldn't suspend, for my accommodation, any of the multitudinous operations; on the contrary, they seemed to take a sort of grim satisfaction in doing about nine hundred things at the same time and no two of them at the same place. Just imagine the position of a reporter trying to "do" the mechanical department, while there was a plowing match at the other end of the grounds, a horse race whizzing round and round, and a parade of premium animals—all at the same moment. It might be possible for him to look at or listen with divided attention, but he could never divide himself so as to be present in propria personæ at each of these performances. If he should do it, his most intimate friends wouldn't know him at either place. He would be taken for badly chopped specimens of hash. The best I can do is to pick up a thread here and another there, just as they present themselves on these the last days of hurry, rush and scramble. I have a little to say about a few things not mentioned before—Oregon inventions and articles to be classed strictly as useful: In a rather obscure corner of the Pavilion, I found an indicator of the depth of water in a steam boiler—a Polk county invention—which, engineers assure me, will supply a long existing want. It is simple and cheap. The same inventor has a patent tooth for circular saws, for which he claims superiority in form, the tooth being so shaped that it can be used up entirely, thereby effecting a saving of cost. Both these articles took first premiums. Mr. Wm Korn of Portland exhibited a simple little invention for slicing vegetables, first premium awarded. I saw also a lot of axe handles, home made, and of Oregon timber, to which was attached a blue ribbon—color of first premium. Charles Korn's patent sinch fastener, some time since described in the OREGONIAN, obtained a premium. John Nestor's combined weatherboard hook, gauge, etc, was exhibited and took a premium. In the same class was an ingeniously contrived gauge by an Oregon inventor. One of the prettiest things on exhibition was a hunting rifle stocked with Oregon wood. In this corner I found, also, some very perfectly turned shoe shapes, cast andirons from Oswego, the first gallons of Oregon made raw and boiled linseed oil, a specimen of beautiful hard oil, willow baskets, window sash, assorted soap, straw hats, harness, boots and shoes, etc.—all of Oregon manufacture from Oregon material. There was a gig saw, invented by Mr. B. J. Colbath, of Salem, for sawing felloes or any kind of scroll work, which will undoubtedly answer the purpose for which it is designed. It can be adjusted to use single or gang saws. I was proud to see that almost everything in the way of machinery was of Oregon invention.

TRIAL OF HAND PLOWS.

At the appointed time the owners of gang plows repaired to the ground assigned, within the race track, and put their machines to work. Most of them had much trouble to get their plows started. The soil being loose and of uneven surface, not more than one or two would "scour," while some part of the toggery of nearly every one had to be adjusted or mended. The trial was therefore long and tedious and not altogether satisfactory. The Society had made a rule that such plows as failed to turn a good furrow, nine inches deep, should be ruled out. In consequence of this the number of competing plows was soon reduced from a dozen to five or six, of which the favorite among the spectators were the "Bantor," invented by John Cox at Fore Coons; the "Eagle" by W. B. Rice of Roseburg; the Duval plow, by R. Duval, of Salem, and the Webfoot, by J. W. Lewis of Oregon City. The first premium was finally awarded to the Salem plow, and the second to Mr. Lewis' "Webfoot." The Committee went upon the proper assumption that a gang plow should be simple, light, and able to go deep after the first two or three rounds. There were several plows which did handsome work at six or seven inches deep, but failed to get down nine. Mr. Cox's "Banter" went right down from the start, and did good work, but it was deemed too complicated. Dr. Griffin, of Albany, had a good plow at six or seven inches deep. Mr. Rice's "Eagle" is a plow that will be used, though it did not take a premium. The peculiarity of the Duval plow is that by means of a brake, the team lifts the plow out of the ground. The others all require the driver to do it by means of a lever or other movement. Notwithstanding the award I think the improved Mason's gang among the very best, considering all things. The "Webfoot" has been considerably simplified since it was exhibited last year, but it is still too liable to get out of repair. This is a fault with nearly all the gangs exhibited. None of them were tried in stubble ground, nor were any of them tested as to draft. The trial does not, therefore, decide anything really. It is not at all certain that some of the plows ruled out will not sell as well and be as well liked as those which obtained premiums.

ANNUAL ADDRESS.

The plowing match was still in progress at the time of the delivery of the annual address; there were outside matches and games of all kinds going on, committees were still at work and exhibitors were looking after the committees; the weather was heavy and cold, and under such circumstances, there was not much enthusiasm about the annual address. It was a fair production, however, and contained many practical suggestions.

PREMIUMS.

The sweepstakes premium for bull of any breed was given to Mr. M. Wilkins, of Lane county, on a Devonshire five years old. The animal was entered by Ralph Geer. Mr. Stewart, of Yamhill, carried off most of the premiums for Durhams and graded stock. There were but few cattle on exhibition but they were very fine.

The principal takers of premiums on sheep were Messrs. John Minto, T. G. Naylor, J. L. Parrish, Ralph Geer and T. L. Davidson. On French Merino buck Mr. Minto carried off the chief prize. Mr. Naylor took 1st premium for French Merino ewe and two 2d premiums for bucks, two and one year old. In American Merino, he was given 1st premiums on ewe and lamb, and for ewe one year old and 2d premium for buck one year old. Ralph Geer, as usual, took all Southdown premiums. Mr. Davidson's premiums were for French and Spanish Merinos. Mr. Parrish had two or three pens of Cotswolds, on which I saw quite a number of blue ribbons. They are large and handsome sheep, with fleeces already grown to considerable length and weight.

Thos. Cross, of Salem, showed several hogs—of what breeds I did not learn—that were greatly admired. They were regular beauties, and no mistake. It is pretty clear that Mr. Cross understands perfectly the business of hog breeding as well as ham curing, for which he has a fame wide as the Pacific coast.

HORSE PREMIUMS.

W. G. Scoggins' Jack Minor, the winner of the great running race of Friday, was awarded the 1st premium as thoroughbred stallion. Wm. Gird's Snowflake, the winner of the race, mile heats, of Wednesday, took first premium as the roughfted mare Put. Smith's stallion Pathfinder, took the sweepstakes premium for best stallion without regard to blood. David Powell's Pathfinder colt took sweepstakes premium for best sucking colt. It is a five month's colt, very handsome and trim though of powerful build, and was more universally admired than any animal on the grounds. The difficulty of ascertaining the names of winners of minor premiums, was so great that I gave up the attempt after a hard day's work.

EQUESTRIANSHIP.

There were only three competitors for the premiums offered to ladies for easy and graceful riding. The trial was rather a hurried one, because of the lateness of the hour, but the riding was, I think, the best ever exhibited at our State fairs. The first premium was awarded to a Miss Caplinger and the second to Miss Ashley of Linn county. Miss Downing of Marion, was the other, and was in the opinion of many a more fearless rider than either of the others.

TRIAL OF SPEED AND BOTTOM.

The great races of the fair came off Friday afternoon. The first was a trotting trial, two mile heats, best two in three, for premium of $150, open to all comers. The only animals entered were Put Smith's mare "Oregon Nell," and O. Smiley's horse "Mohawk." The mare won in two straight heats, never breaking once, in going the four miles. She made the first mile in 2.34 and the heat in 5.25½. On the second heat, she went the first mile in 2.41 and the last in 2.42½, making the heat 5.23½. Very little money changed hands, except on the wager that the mare would distance her competitor, which she did on the second heat.

The second race was for running horses, two mile heats, two in three, for premium of $150. The competitors were W. Gird's "Snowflake," W. G. Scoggin's "Jack Minor," and J. G. Hasket's Jeff Davis. The mare had the inside, Jack Minor the middle and Jeff Davis the outside. As usual the mare started ahead, but Jack Minor soon drew up, was even at the first quarter stake and a length ahead at the half mile, a gap which he steadily increased to a half dozen lengths at the outcome, winning the heat in 3:58. Jeff Davis was distanced. Jack Minor made the first mile in 1.56 and the second in 2.02. The next heat was, of course, between Jack Minor and the mare only. At the start the mare shot ahead and gained the pole, but Jack took it again before the half mile stake was reached and kept it the balance of the heat, winning in 3:53½. He made the first mile in 1.51 and the second 2.00, and could have went quicker had he been pushed. The mare came in nearly or quite the distance behind and apparently much distressed. On the former race, mile heats, between these same horses, the backers of Jack Minor had bet and lost heavily, but in this case they got even again. There was very excited betting before the first heat and even after the mare had lost the first, her backers betted freely, so that all the Portland boys had to do was to pungle up and rake down.

GENERAL VIEW IN THE PAVILION.

The almost countless number of articles in the main hall of the Pavilion, rendered it impossible to make mention of more than the most notable things. The room was crowded to overflowing, making it difficult to display the articles fairly. The show was incomparably better than that of any preceding fair. I noticed in the space allotted to the fine arts a great number of wreaths, bouquets, monuments, and ornamental frames, of very rich and beautiful general appearance, and of exceedingly ingenious workmanship. Among them was a piece entitled "The Farmer's Wreath," which was altogether new to most persons; the wreath, a floral design, being made wholly of farm garden and flower seeds. It must have been the work of months and perhaps years, as there were, without extravagant speaking thousands of seeds of every imaginable kind, neatly glued together so as to make a large wreath of elaborate design and the most complete finish. There were two or three other designs worked in the same material but of less merit. Another wreath much admired for its beauty and grace was made wholly of fine fibers, colored in imitation of a great variety of flowers, leaves, etc. Mr. H. B. Tuttle of Portland, exhibited a collection of shells of remarkable beauty, brilliance and variety of color.

The space devoted to needlework was as full that nothing smaller than a good sized baby frock had any show to make itself visible to the naked eye. This part of the Pavilion was constantly crowded by throngs of ladies who seemed never too weary of gazing at, and exclaiming about the "loves of things." My poor pen could do no justice to this department, and I shall not begin a work so certain to end in utter failure.

THE CLOSING OUT.

The only spectacle on Saturday, under the auspices of the Society was a special premium race for three year old colts, single dash or one mile for a premium of $50. The entries were W. G. Scoggin's filly, a gentleman colt by Portland, Hugh Fish's Blackskin Bill and A. Z. Sears' Mayflower. Fields's colt won the race in 1.56½, Scoggin's filly being hard upon his heels. Sears' colt was left behind nearly a quarter.

The weather on Saturday morning, giving indications of rain, there was a general and hurried scramble to gather up duds and be off. The Pavilion looked as though a horde of vandals had broken loose and had invaded the premises to rifle them. Many articles were ruined or badly damaged in the hurried removal. Long before night the place was deserted and as forlorn looking as a sacked village. In like manner the camp grounds were vacated, the huckster stands were pulled down, and the money-grabbing show tents were folded, the occupants hastening away as if a general panic had seized upon every living thing.

Everybody being in a hurry to get away, the rush made upon the Secretary's office for premiums, was among the most immense things of the Fair. If under the pressure, one of the executive committee did swear a little (something he was never known to do before,) he was certainly as excusable as any man that ever plumped out an oath.

A considerable number of scrub races were run during the day, creating intense excitement among the rather rough crowd which took possession of the track after the Society's officers left it.

There was scarcely a day or night passed but somebody lost something by thieves, of whom there seemed a legion. One man sleeping in a tent, with his horses hitched to his wagon close by, got up one morning and found that some scapegrace thief had stolen the blankets of his horses. Next night he slept in the wagon to take care of things, pulling off his pants and putting them under his head. Next morning upon waking, he discovered that somebody had stolen his pants. He had to be hauled to town under his blankets to purchase new clothes. This incident illustrates the kind of safety which persons and property enjoyed on the Fair grounds.

The Tom Thumb levees were attended by immense crowds, both at the circus pavilion, at the fair grounds and at the Wigwam in town. Their entertainment is an exceedingly interesting one.

Jack Williams, who escaped from the Penitentiary brick yard on Tuesday morning, stole a horse at the fair ground and was arrested at Oregon City, was brought back by way of the fair ground on Saturday morning and placed again in confinement at the Penitentiary. He had but a few weeks to serve, but by this operation, has taken a new lease of the institution. He was sent from Portland for stealing a shot gun.

The Carter Company has made a very successful week at Reed's Opera House. Mr. Carter has an excellent troupe. He goes to Portland tomorrow (Sunday) to perfect arrangements for opening Tuesday night at Oro Fino Theater. The people should give them a good house by way of inaugurating the dramatic season. Mrs. Carter is a stylish woman, a spirited and accomplished actress and deserves the popularity she has won at the capital city. Mr. Carter expressed his fixed purpose of giving the people of Portland the best season of dramatic amusements they ever had.

The number of Portland people who have attended this fair, number but little less, if any, than four hundred. Nearly two hundred left by the boat this morning, and as many more will go to morrow (Sunday).

FRESHEST GLEANINGS.

C. F. Hall, the Arctic explorer, is a citizen of Cincinnati.

The Philadelphia contributions to the Avondale Relief Fund amount to $38,687 22.

The Indiana Democrats are divided about the time of holding their State Convention. One party favors January, another midsummer. This blowing cold and hot has often damaged the Democrat to cause before this.

The official returns of the vote for Governor of Vermont, at the late election, foot up as follows: General Peter T. Washburn, Republican, 31,534; Homer W. Eaton, Democrat, 11,455; scattering, 26; Republican majority over all, 20,353.

The San Francisco Bulletin says that during the last three years about $300,000 have been expended in that city in the vain endeavor to sustain new journalistic enterprises. The Herald is one of the most prominent of these enterprises.

The latest statement of the manufacturing industry of Fall River says that that city has 518,880 spindles and 12,617 looms; consuming annually 58,851 bales of cotton, and manufactures 14,777,350 yards of print cloths, 3,5000,000 yards of sheeting, and 5,100,000 yards of shirting.

The Petersburg (Virginia) Express, after reading the statement that the Minnesota Democratic State Convention indefinitely postponed a resolution opposing the Fifteenth Amendment, says that these Northwestern Democrats are really beginning to discover that the Democratic principles of Buchanan went down with the rebellion.

Commodore J. M. Hancox has obtained from the Venezuelan Government permission to run two steamers on the Orinoco river from its mouth to the furthest point in the State navigable, about 180 miles. He intends to construct a railroad to cross the most populous districts of the State and to form a connection with the steamers' traffic on the Orinoco.

Bonner, in a published card, says he will not trot Dexter in a race with any horse for money, but that he will pay $100,000 for any other horse that will make the time Dexter has made. This is a great price to offer for a horse, but Bonner is not by any means the greatest horse buyer in history. Richard III bid a much higher price, although it is true there was a "corner" of paste in the horse market at the time.

The Concord (N. H.) Republican says that when General Chamberlain, Governor of Maine, after one of the terrible battles of the war, lay upon a hospital couch, shot through the body, and, as all supposed, very near his end, the attendants began preparations for embalming his body, that it might be sent home. This was a little earlier than the General desired, and moving himself, he said: "Gentlemen, I have made different arrangements. I invite you all to dine with me one week from to-day."

Northern Pacific Railroad.

"Carlton,"—Coffin—of the Boston Journal has been on a tour to Minnesota, studying the problem presented by the Northern Pacific Railroad. He calls it "the grand portage of the centuries," and talks of it in this strain:

The Northern Pacific Railroad will be built, and in time will become the great trunk road of the continent for the following reasons: It will be the shortest line between the millions that are to occupy the country north of the Ohio river and the Middle States on the one hand and the Pacific on the other; it will be the shortest line for passenger travel between England and China. It lies through the great wheat fields of the continent; it will have its terminus in the future New England of the Pacific coast, a region yet to be dotted all over with manufacturing towns; it lies through a region where the climate is milder in winter than along the central belt of the continent, and which for the entire distance is capable of sustaining an agricultural or industrial community.

Spread out once more the map before we dismiss the subject, and see how the river runs, see how the St. Lawrence and the lakes furnish a water half way across the continent. Look at the wheat field, bounded north by the Arctic circle east by Lake Winnipeg, south by the plain of Nebraska, west by the Rocky Mountains. Consider that out here we are only in the latitude of Paris, that the latitude of the northern limit of the wheat field is not so near the North pole as the southern coast of Norway or St. Petersburg; think of the cabilities of Oregon, of the Columbia, pouring its mighty flood into the Pacific, yet to be put to work in turning mill wheels; of the forests of the Pacific coast, the coal of Puget Sound the bays, harbors and rivers swarming with fish, of a climate as mild, and in many parts milder, than that of Maine or Vermont take to all that nature has done, and then reflect what man can do with such means and appliances.

It is only by some such process that we can arrive at an estimate of the future greatness of this section of our country.

The San Francisco Bulletin does not evince a very accurate knowledge of Pacific coast affairs, when in speaking of the First National Bank of Nevada, it characterizes it as the only National Bank "west of the Rocky mountains."

RAILWAY SALE.—The Circuit Court for Washington Co convenes at Hillsboro to-day

The steamship Orpheamus which arrived at Swan Island her last Saturday morning for light [illegible] for that Francisco about 500 tons of freight and [illegible] passengers

The Hattie C. Bean is now lying at Kittredge's wharf foot of Taylor street. Her regular will soon be [illegible] and she will sail for Hoag & Co. to load out for Wrangel

The bark Whistler has dropped down the river to receive the rest of her cargo

The boat from Oregon City on Saturday was crowded to her utmost capacity with passengers returning from the State Fair.

There are more strangers in Portland at present than have been here at any time since the Fourth of July. The Hotels are all crowded

The planking on Jefferson street is completed to Fifth street

An ordinance is now pending in the Common Council the object of which is to prevent horses but horses and others from driving cattle from the mouth of Ferry [illegible] streets of the city at all hours of the day. Such a precaution will enhance the safety of pedestrians

Some of the boys who returned by the [illegible] on Saturday night from Salem were stripped. They left their money on Jack Minor at the wrong time

A man on board the Orpheamus attempted to commit suicide on the last trip up from California by jumping overboard, but being frustrated in that plan undertook to shorten his days by severing his jugular vein. He failed in this also. He is a native of England and appears to be laboring under an aberration of mind. The cause of his insanity is unknown.

The Willamette river is again nearly down to low water mark.

The Nora Taylor will leave San Francisco for this place on or about Thursday

The bell from the old M. E. Church has been [illegible] the town, and its familiar tone called their congregations [illegible] gather again yesterday morning and evening.

It is reported that the middle pier of the railroad bridge across the Clackamas river is completed and the entire structure will be finished soon. The Clackamas is one of the largest streams on the line of the road between this place and Salem.

An immense quantity of mortar and laths are piled up on Alder street, near First. They are to be used in lathing and plastering the Odd Fellows Hall building.

FISH STORIES.—The Statesman of Saturday says

Taylor Moor, of Yamhill, had the good fortune to find a gold mine on the Fair Grounds—he discovered a ten dollar nugget already painted, in a horse track near the [illegible]

Mrs. Locke, who was seriously injured on Monday last, is not dead, as reported on the streets yesterday but slowly recovering

There has been little trouble during the fair with the [illegible] Occasionally some fellow has been un[illegible] but all deserve punishment, and has received [illegible] loss of it, a justice being convenient to enforce the law. The Marshals deserve great credit for their [illegible] conduct and firmness in enforcing compliance with his regulations. There is no room for complaint in any important respect, and no complaint seems to be made by considerate and responsible persons. One fellow undertook to crowd into the circus while the rest were [illegible] and blocked up the way entirely and [illegible] Constable [illegible] assaulted the doorkeeper [illegible] man with a bloody nose and the passage [illegible] Another "smarty" drew a pistol on a Marshal, not knowing, perhaps, that that is a penitentiary offense, and it seems that some others didn't know it either, for he paid that he was fined five dollars.

There were two arrests yesterday on the Fair Grounds. One Leach was too disorderly for comfort, and being fined for [illegible] or unable to pungle, was carefully shut up in jail.

The Orchard and pastures in all parts of Marion [illegible] are very fine indeed. Much fall plowing is being done and the ground is in excellent order. Green peas and beans are common here now, and thousands of bloo[illegible] are up and forth

The new mill dam of Mr Armstrong, on the Abiqua, [illegible] northeast from Salem, washed out some two hundred feet. The new mill there was about ready to start saw[illegible], and this accident will retard the making of [illegible] by the owner till next summer. The steam saw mill of Sterne's boiling, six miles northeast of Salem, runs well. Yet with all these sawmills in the county—[illegible] in number, there is a scarcity of lumber

CANDIDATE.—A correspondent sends us the following from Centerville, W. T.:

"Visitors from this place may interest your readers. Oregon should feel an interest in everything that tends to develop our new country, and make the public [illegible] with its enterprises. The works here under the [illegible] auspices of J. Knapp, Jr., a brother of the original proprietor, Mr J. B. Knapp are prospering finely. Everything moves along systematically and [illegible] The boarding house which feeds from 45 to [illegible], is a pleasant home with all the comforts and [illegible] desirable for laboring men. No intoxicating drinks being allowed on the place, we have no brawls or [illegible]. We have a population of 75, and daily applications from laboring men of all classes, and families [illegible] to become residents.

The large saw mill being erected here by a joint stock company, under the style of the "Columbia River Manufacturing Company," is progressing within the bounds of [illegible] Mr. S. B. Abbott, and will be the [illegible] mill this side of Puget Sound, with a capacity of [illegible] per day of ten hours, which in connection with the new mill and hand factory now [illegible] planing, dressing and cornering, which is pronounced by General Holbrook the best in the United States, now being used with [illegible] in the Custom Houses at the Dalles, Astoria and Portland, will render it time a fine business point [illegible] be a good shipping [illegible] and deep, (being [illegible] at the wharf at low tide) both for the entrance and [illegible] of the largest ships, as has been lately verified by the [illegible] steamer, which lay without a particle of [illegible] above, of our shield in at several days citizens [illegible] in their tickets and walking off with a box of [illegible] or a bottle of pickles. The leading price was a [illegible] low set and was drawn by Mr McLane.

"Rooms to [illegible]—A large number of those shops came down from Salem yesterday. They were at their planks as they came down on the boats. They fleeced two [illegible] "greenies" out of considerable sums of money by some kind of a thimble rigging process. They will [illegible] make their presence felt in this city very soon, and we advise people to be on the watch for them. A little cold lead will reach them a wholesome lesson and be a warning to their confreres.

RETURNED.—About all of the Portlanders who were in [illegible] up to the Fair have returned. They unanimously express themselves fully of the opinion that it was by far the grandest success of the kind ever held in the State. Our reporter says it was the first fair ever held in Oregon, and that was too much for his pen. It was outcome of that his reports will be found [illegible] and all who will [illegible] how "the show" passed off.

ARRIVALS.—There was a large crowd of boys at the Theater on Saturday night who should have been put out of the house for their grossly disorderly conduct. We would [illegible] to Prof. Morey that he scatter no more candy among the audience, as it only leads to such unseemly scrambling by those rude youngsters which is particularly disagreeable to that part of the audience who are disposed to be civil.

[illegible]—We learn that several cases of violations of city ordinances have been awaiting the return of our [illegible] Recorder. They will probably come up for [illegible] this morning.

AT IT AGAIN.—One of the many vagabonds that infest town attempted to break into a house in the lower part of the city on Saturday night but the gentleman of the house being awake at the time started to intercept the rascal when he turned and fled which was well for him, as the man was ready for him with a six shooter.

BURGLARY.—It is reported that Charles Burch and a [illegible] of his broke into [illegible] in Cowlitz county, and the last arrest which we mentioned on Saturday, was made in consequence of that act. He will probably be tried the [illegible] burglary and not the brought back here until that matter is [illegible]

IMMIGRANTS.—A family [illegible] of eight persons arrived in the Orpheamus who on all the way from [illegible] Missouri. They have been originally but [illegible] to Texas a few years ago and now concluded to go to make their [illegible] They are just what is needed in this country.

SURVEYOR.—We hear that E. H. Hall formerly a resident of this city and a Deputy Sheriff under J. Stipp, Esq., committed suicide a few days ago in California. We were unable to learn what prompted him to perpetrate the rash act. He leaves a family.

ON THE BAR.—The Orpheamus struck on the bar at Swan Island a few miles [illegible] this city on last Saturday morning at [illegible] o'clock and remained [illegible] hours. Her passengers and part of the [illegible] on the Nora Taylor.

TOM THUMB.—Every body has heard of this celebrated character and it is only necessary to call public attention to [illegible] performance of [illegible] and his company of dwarfs to insure a crowded house on the occasion of their appearance here.

CIRCUS COMING.—We learn a celebrated circus [illegible] will be here on [illegible] and will delight [illegible] folks with some of the most daring and wonderful feats ever performed on the coast.

OCEAN STEAMER.—The steamer [illegible] left on last Saturday. She will probably not be here this morning.

A Washington correspondent tells this story: The evening after the first election of Charles Sumner the Senate Chief Stevens said to a Massachusetts man who called upon him: "Who is this Charles Sumner? I know a thing about him." "The greatest man in Massachusetts except perhaps Ralph Waldo Emerson," was the reply. Soon after Caleb Cushing came into the room, and Mr Stevens put a similar inquiry to him. Mr Cushing replied: "Charles Sumner is a man of the greatest mind in Massachusetts, excepting Charles Francis Adams, who combines the grasp and energy of his grandfather with the learning and experience of his father."

EVERYBODY IS OUT SHOPPING these days, and it is just the time to get the Fall and Winter Styles. It is almost impossible to pass the splendid store of KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, without being drawn in by the attraction of those charming New Suits and the enormous piles of elegant clothing and fancy goods of every description and quality. They have unquestionably, the largest stock and best assortment of goods that can be found in the city of Portland. Messrs Kohn & Fishel bring their goods direct from New York, and sell as cheap as the cheapest.

At a special meeting of Protection Engine Co No 4, held at their Engine House October 11, 1869, it was unanimously resolved to nominate Mr R Holman, Foreman of their company, as candidate for Chief Engineer of the Portland Fire Department for the coming election. It was further resolved that the company support Mr Charles Reynard, of Willamette Co. No. 1, as Assistant Engineer.

THE EQUATING!
Treating Disease by Vacuum
DR. H. A. RODMAN
HAVING PURCHASED HADLEY'S EQUALIZER and the Patent Right for Multnomah county, would respectfully inform his friends and the public generally that he is prepared to treat, fully those Chronic cases on whom all other [illegible] have failed.
Having used this [illegible] in connection with his [illegible] practice for about three months, he is satisfied that it will accomplish all that is claimed for it in curing Chronic Diseases. He does not believe in the system of advertising cases cured, but say number of such may be seen on record at his office. The following particularly of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Curvature of the Spine, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, Weak Eyes, Weak Stomach, Narrow Chests, Weak Lungs, Weak [illegible], Weak Side and Rheumatic Limbs, Sciatica &c. &c. Epilepsy, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Prolapsus Uteri, Obstruction, Leucorrhœa, Irregularities, Suppression, Inflammation, with all their attendant evils. Diseases of the Eye and all kinds of weakness of the Generative Organs treated confidently cured in from four to six weeks without medicine.
He does not profess to cure when [illegible] but the Equalizer generally performs the cure without the aid of any medicines whatever. It brings a greater supply of blood and nutrition to all weak parts, thus creating new life and tone, and health, and strength in those parts. It is also a very powerful [illegible] to the circulation throughout every part of the system, thereby [illegible] the circulation throughout every part of the system.
Give it a fair trial and you will be satisfied with the results. It has been examined by thousands of physicians of all Schools of Medicine, and there has not been a dissenting voice to the assertions of the patentee all acknowledge that it fills a vacancy in the Science of Medicine.

The Indianapolis Disaster.

INCIDENTS AND DETAILS.

The Indianapolis Journal of October 2d contains the following particulars of the disaster at the Indianapolis State Fair, of which the telegraph gave a brief account:

The heart sickens and the brain reels with the fearful tale of yesterday's horror. Four days of unexampled pleasure and prosperity had attended the State Fair. In the midst of the excitement and giddiness of the closing hours, without a moment's warning of its dread approach, death, in most horrid shapes and fantastic tortures, clasped its icy fingers around the whole scene of joy and pleasure, enveloped it with a deep and damning pall such as has but seldom been drawn about even the most doomed locality. In the disordered brain of the poet we have been used to such sickening phantasms as the sudden arrest of the revel and the dance by the unwelcome approach of disaster and death; we have read with bated breath and quivering lips of such scenes as Atoudale, and yet have failed to feel their full terror for lack of personal apprehension. Yesterday the Pandora box of evil opened for us and in the twinkling of an eye an arena of pleasure and mirth was metamorphosed into literal arena of death, of torture and of terror.

THE EXPLOSION.

It was after the battle. One o'clock yesterday afternoon was the hour assigned for the trial of portable engines and sawmills, and into the competition several firms entered, among them Sinker & Co., engine builders and Long, Joseph A. Carter, sawyers. The test had been completed and the victory, if a victory it is, had been won by the Sinker machine. Seven minutes and a half of sawing had been done, with every part of the engine and mill strained to the utmost tension after which the fires had been permitted to go down and the machines to rest. About 3 o'clock Mr. Sinker's foreman thought it advisable to saw up the logs on hand, so as to clear up for removal on the morrow. The engine was started, and the task accomplished with the exception of two "turns." The pit beneath the saw was filled with sawdust, and temporary rest was taken, to allow the two colored helpers to clean it out. A large circle of interested lookers-on were gathered about the area occupied by the machinery while here and there over the grounds were scattered twelve of fifteen thousand people. At a moment of undisturbed quiet, while the hum of the machinery was hushed and attention directed toward the ring, in which the fast trotting was about to commence, a noise like the explosion of a park of artillery saluted the ear, and a concussion of the earth as of an earthquake sent a thrill of fear to the heart. A volume of steam, a blinding cloud of dust and smoke, the air filled with debris of timber of pieces of iron, of shreds of clothing, parts of human beings, of groans, and of shrieks men falling hither and thither, and ranks opening as if plowed through by grape and shrapnel, told the fearful tale of an explosion. The engine, a minute before a thing of beauty, obedient to the touch of man, was torn and rent by a mighty convulsion, its comeliness gone, its parts scattered to the four winds, hardly a joint left in integrity. That which in one second had been an implement of industry, in the next was turned into a sickle of death, reaping and mowing its victims in a swath confined by no rule or measured by no regularity.

The scene was one to appal the stoutest heart. The immense crowd, only informed enough to know that a terrible accident had occurred, sawyed and surged like mighty billows, breaking over every confine and threatening to add to the list of deaths, by trampling beneath their feet some of the weaker and the smaller, who were reeling about in the vortex in utter helplessness. First impelled by curiosity, the jam was toward the spot from whence the sound came; the maimed and wounded lying about the vicinity were overwhelmed, and doubtless some were killed outright who might have lived had they been allowed air and given attention at once. When curiosity was appeased by the ghastly sights which met the eye, and when the people, in a dazed and bewildered way, came to comprehend the character of the disaster, a panic seized them, and even a more fearful calamity was threatened through their terror. Strenuous exertions were made by the cooler and calmer to quiet and allay excitement, and, after a time, something like order was evoked, and a survey made of the extent of the calamity.

The engine was set up about 75 yards west of the Power Hall, and the sawmill some 50 or 100 feet due north of the engine. The force of the explosion seemed to be lateral. Heavy pieces of machinery were blown to the north and west a long distance; a few of the lighter parts were found some distance to the east, but most were thrown backward. Those who saw it, say nothing was thrown higher than 30 or 40 feet. The bodies of several men were lifted into the air, and alighted in mangled and mutilated shapes many yards from where they were standing when struck with the steam. An idea of the force and power and the horror of the explosion, may be gathered from some of the incidents which we have been able to collate.

Where the engine stood was left no perceptible trace, except an area of smoked and blackened ground. Even the foundation had been torn up, and not a brick was left standing one upon the other. The framing of the sawmill was thrown askew, turned over, broken and dislocated. A large piece of the boiler, which must have weighed 500 pounds, was carried a distance of a hundred yards. One similar piece was thrown clear into the time track, and skipping over it, buried itself in the sod beyond. Another large piece was blown westward, clear over the dyke upon the cattle pens. It crashed through the roof of one, and struck a large ox on the horns, breaking off the tips, passing entirely out of the enclosure of the fair grounds. One of the shafts, to which was attached an eccentric, was thrown sideways over Power Hall, and landed at the side of Domestic Hall. One of the rods was twisted off and carried at least 300 yards in a northerly direction, striking a man on the head who was standing not far from the amphitheater. In almost every direction smaller pieces of the machinery were thrown, and the air was literally full of splinters, bolts, screws, nuts, pieces of rods, and such of the lighter portions of the engine. Innumerable are the stories told of how deadly missiles alighted just in front of people, arrested by a gracious Providence in their deadly flight.

To attempt a portraiture of the scene were folly. Imagine 15,000 people, pallid with fear, rushing and crushing to and fro, impelled by a nameless something toward an undefinable object, men bearing dead and wounded into the various halls, women shrieking and crying, for fear their husbands, sons or brothers may be among the killed; Strong men convulsed and in tears, because temporarily separated from their wives and children, and in suspense as to their safety, here stumbling across the mutilated form of a man, there appalled by the sight of a skull absolutely stripped of its flesh; here an arm there a pair of legs, here a side of clotted blood; there a horse struck dead in the harness with the occupants of the carriage dumb and palsied with terror. All this, and more, and infinitely more, must be imagined to fill in the details of a picture of which it were next to impossible to give the faintest outlines.

In time, however, the Babel and chaos ceased, and the dead and wounded were gathered together, placed in wagons and started for the city, where they received every possible attention that sympathy and skill could bestow.

The procession of the maimed and bleeding, and of the corpses, into the city was sad and sickening enough. It was a forcible imitation of that special panorama of suffering that paralyzed the st. [illegible] of Washington city on that July morning, when the Federal hosts were beaten back in blood and dismay from Bull Run.

The tidings of the accident reached town in a very few minutes, and soon the whole population was aroused. Pennsylvania and Delaware streets, as the principal avenues from the grounds, were lined with terror-stricken people, eager to hear the news. At the gates stood groups of scared women and children, shivering with the dread that one of those rude hearses might drop the load of blank miseries at their doorsteps. Never have we seen the city of Indianapolis so thoroughly alarmed and aroused. The pitch from joy to horror was so sudden and extreme. The newspaper offices were crowded with eager newsseekers; the rooms of W. W. Weaver, the undertaker, whither the dead bodies were taken to await recognition and reclamation, were besieged by a crowd of several hundred until midnight. The hotels were thronged, the Surgical Institute where the wounded were lying, was the focus toward which hundreds of people converged, and wherever two or three could get together there was a hurried comparison of notes and an exchange of the latest information.

The Supreme Court of Louisiana has recently decided, at its sitting in Opelousas, on appeal from the District Court of St. Landry a very important question of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution. The case was that of the State in the relation of Amrin vs. Garrique, and the decision of the Supreme Court is that when one has taken an oath of office before the war to support the Constitution of the United States and during the war held an office in a State in rebellion, which required him to take an oath to support the Confederate States, such a person cannot be said to have engaged in insurrection and rebellion against the United States, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof, in the meaning of section 3 of the Fourteenth Amendment.

THE WEST

Advices from Missoula creek (County of Alleghany Mountains) say the amount of water is materially increased and mining vigorous and profitable. Flour went up $22 on a "corner," but large supplies are coming in from Missoula.

A paper away up among the mountains in Montana prints the following "apology." Several notices of marriages, births and deaths, which should have appeared in this number are unavoidably left out owing to the failure of parties to marry and born and die.

A Deer Lodge paper of October 1st says: The price of wheat advanced in Missoula last week from $2 to $2 25 gold for prime quality. Flour sells. Missoula Mills, Three Star, $7 superior $8 and Walla Walla $12 per 100 pounds. Large quantities of flour are coming in from Oregon.

The San Francisco Call says that the cause of dull times in the cities of California, whether San Francisco, Sacramento, Stockton, Marysville, San Jose or Valley is that they have not enough country customers to support their hordes of dealers and professional men. Which is simply saying that the town has outgrown the country.

The San Francisco Chronicle of the 8th inst. says that the condition of mercantile affairs in that city are unsatisfactory. Several large business houses are considerably pressed having invested their capital too much in outside speculations and within the next two months, the Chronicle predicts, there will be a number of failures.

We take the following from a San Francisco paper of a late date. A few evenings since, as two gentlemen, one of them not unpunished by his wife and the other by a lady friend, were passing by the Kuss House, they were accosted by two of the demi-monde, who were in a friendly state of inebriation. One of them knocked the former gentleman's elegant tile down over his eyes and the other served his male companion in the same manner, exclaiming at the same time, "Tom, old boy, how are you?" The ladies were visibly astonished by the little incident which soon poured down their companions faces. The frail ones then passed on, followed by an admiring crowd.

A Montana paper has the following. Horse stealing is a part of the constitutional depravity of an Indian. There has been a charitable belief that some of our settlement Indians respect the white man's horse flesh, but it is a mistake. A band of the Pen d'Oreilles who were going to hunt buffalo, passed through Blackfoot on the 22d, and the next day forty-five of All Peacock's band of horses were missing. Al. mounted and came upon their camp near Dana's Bar, and found six of his horses in their possession. They denied stealing them, claiming to have recaptured them from the Blackfeet, which in all probability is a lie. The result of this kind of work will probably be the shooting down of a lot of Indians and a general war with the "friendlies."

A Deer Lodge (Montana) paper says: The miners on Pilgrim Bar (Gold Creek) have a pretty good thing, and as it is somewhat unusual, we propose to tell why. The bar has an extent of over 400 acres. A year or two ago it was considered valueless, claims selling at nominal figures. Last year it was opened up and paid well. The ground was sluiced off a portion to what seemed a soft bed rock, and as an experiment, a shaft was sunk through this, when another bed of wash gravel, paying as well as the first, was found, the distance between the first and second false bed rocks being 10 to 12 feet. Companies have been working on this second bed rock this summer, taking out as high as $1,200 to $1,800 per week to six hands. No one doubts now that the whole bar will pay to this second bed rock. But not content with this, the character of the first and second bed rock being the same, and there not being water enough to occupy them, several parties have sunk through the second and found another bed of pay gravel. It seems like another Ballarat. The bar, at this rate, is practically inexhaustible, and it enhances the value of the Gold Creek camp—doubtless now the best in Montana. Owing to the scarcity of water, some 700 or 800 inches, probably not over 200 men are working now, but the ground opened, with all the ditches carrying an average amount of water, will give employment to 1,500 men, and not over one-fifth of the ground is yet opened.
